3. INTEGRATED AND EMBODIED APPROACH TO LEARNING

The course is designed to integrate all aspects of the yoga tradition (poses, anatomy, philosophy, meditation) in an informed yet non-dogmatic way.

Traditional teachings are aligned with up-to-date anatomical knowledge and the awareness of the contemporary evolution of yoga practices.

Modules on anatomy, physiology and bio-mechanics establish a strong foundation for understanding of the body and intelligent movement so that you can teach knowledgeably, safely and inclusively.

Modules on yogic philosophy and history inform and inspire your teaching and personal practice.

Every day on the training begins with a group practice so you can embody the principles taught in the various modules and deeply advance your own personal practice.

We believe this approach inspires you to develop your unique teaching voice, encouraging you to keep expanding your knowledge whilst building on a solid, rich, and well-informed methodology.

4. INFORMED & CREATIVE APPROACH TO TEACHING

The training includes modules on a variety of skills in creating and leading classes, drawing on the anatomical and philosophical modules and encouraging you to develop your own creative voice as a teacher.

We focus on a variety of methods of devising and theming inclusive classes and how to use your voice and language in instruction.

You have plenty of time to practice your teaching skills throughout the course so that you feel fully confident for your final assessment and ready to step into teaching!

We also cover a full range of topics in the business aspects of yoga so that you can present your skills professionally and uniquely and be prepared and excited to build your teaching practice after graduation!

5. WIDE VOCABULARY OF TEACHING SKILLS IN VINYASA FLOW YOGA

Vinyasa Flow is an energetic and (as the name suggests) flowing form of yoga practice that allows great scope for creativity in sequencing poses and theming classes.

The TripYoga course covers all the anatomical and philosophical background principles and class-planning skills to empower you to create and lead inspiring and nourishing classes for your future students.

6. MODULES IN YIN, RESTORATIVE AND PRE- & POST-NATAL YOGA

Exciting additional components of the TripYoga training are the modules on Yin, Restorative and Pre- and Post-natal yoga.

Yin yoga is a slow and meditative practice of longer-held poses with the body in passive mode (for the most part) to benefit the deep, connective tissues of the body.

Restorative yoga is the art of relaxation, with long-held, passive poses supported with props to bring a deep sense of ease to body and mind.

Pre- and Post-natal yoga is the knowledge of adapting poses appropriately for the body in these stages of life to nourish and support the mum-to-be or new mum in her yoga practice.

Each of these sessions grounds you in the principles and practice of these beautiful forms of yoga that may be appropriately added to Vinyasa Flow to enrich the classes you offer and importantly, allow you to include pre- and post-natal students in your classes.

You may then build upon this knowledge to offer specific classes in these individual practices, widening the scope of classes you can offer.

7. INSTRUCTORS WITH EXTENSIVE TEACHING EXPERIENCE AND SPECIALIST KNOWLEDGE

Amanda Walker

Amanda has been a regular TripYoga teacher since 2014.

She has been teaching public, corporate and private yoga classes and workshops (to practitioners and yoga teachers) in London for the last 7 years and has over 5000 hours of teaching experience.

She is fully qualified in Vinyasa Flow, Hatha, Yin, Restorative and Pre- and Post-natal yoga. She has trained with the highly respected Frog Lotus International School and Uma Dinsmore-Tuli amongst other experienced teachers.

Her background in dance and visual arts brings a rich element of creativity to her sequencing and she is devoted to continuous learning as both teacher and practitioner.

Her specialist qualifications in anatomy and extensive study of yogic philosophy also inform and inspire her practices and she is passionate about the intelligent combining of the traditional teachings of yoga with up-to-date knowledge of anatomical alignment and bio-mechanics.

Her classes are welcoming and inclusive, offering a wide vocabulary of variations of poses so that every practitioner can explore their optimum potential within both the physical and philosophical aspects of yoga, both on and off the yoga mat.

Roberto Rubalcava

When Roberto discovered yoga he found a place “where everything is fine”.

Since then his practice has spanned eleven years and he has been teaching for the last five.

He teaches Vinyasa Flow, Yin, and Restorative yoga.

His interest lies in body alignment, the focusing of breath, mind, heart and energy while creating challenging and original sequences.

Roberto completed his 200-hour teacher training at ‘Frog Lotus Yoga International,’ subsequently he furthered his studies by attending the 500-hr advanced training on ‘Modern Postural Yoga’ at ‘Vajrasati Yoga’ with Jim Tarran.

Roberto is also a qualified Practitioner in therapeutic massage, anatomy and physiology from the London College of Massage since 2011, he is also Reiki Level 2 attuned, a Jiriki practitioner and holds a first aid certificate from the Red Cross.

Since Roberto’s extensive experience is varied in influence you’ll discover the full spectrum when you go to his classes, however: whether you’re upside down in a fast-paced dynamic flow, or completely still, in a restorative class... you’re always in good hands.

8. TRIPYOGA-PASSPORT

TripYoga-TripSpace is well known for being a friendly, welcoming, family-run studio.

We offer a wide and high-quality programme and host some of the most experienced teachers in London.

As part of the course you receive a TripYoga-Passport (including a number of free and discounted class passes) enabling you to practice in our beautiful studio regularly and observe a variety of exemplary classes... welcome to the TripYoga Family!

9. BUSINESS SKILLS

This course is thoughtfully designed to equip you not only with a thorough grounding in the practice and teaching of yoga but also with a detailed knowledge of practical and professional business development skills.

We include modules on how to develop your professional profile as a teacher so that you are able to start establishing your career as soon as you graduate from the training.

Topics we cover include:

- How to identify your unique voice as a teacher and present this effectively across online (and other) platforms.
- How to build long-lasting connections with your students and fellow professionals to support your teaching, classes and your relationships and resources within the wider yoga community.
- How to establish your group and public classes, build a private and/or corporate client base and create and promote workshops and retreats to build a well-rounded and sustainable business as a yoga teacher.

10. FIVE DAY IMMERSION RETREAT IN SPAIN

The last part of the course will take place as a 5-day intensive learning retreat in residence in Spain at House of Light retreat centre.

This part of the course is held within a supportive and nurturing environment for the group collectively and individually.

Community support and friendships are important elements of a yoga teacher's quality of life and work and we intend that this time on the intensive further develops connections with your peers and teachers that will serve and support you into the future.

The 5-day intensive completes the syllabus of learning and teaching practice and also includes the final assessments.

Our wish is that being in such relaxing surroundings with delicious and nutritious meals prepared for you that you are in the most supportive possible environment to give your best to your final assessment.

Weaving together all of these components inspires you to develop your unique, creative teaching voice whilst building on a solid, rich, and well-informed teaching methodology.

How much is the course?

The course is £3,350.

To secure your place after successful application, we require a non-refundable deposit of £750.

You have the option to pay in 4 instalments of £650 after the initial deposit.

Please note: price includes tuition and accommodation (shared rooms) and full-board during the 5-day learning retreat at House of Light Retreat Center in Spain.

It is NOT inclusive of flights to Spain and local transfers.

For more details see next question.

What is included in the price?

The course fees include group tuition, individual and group feedback and mentoring, course manuals, handouts, assessments, certificate, a TripYoga-Passport that will include participation in 20 classes and observation of 3 classes at TripSpace AND full boards and twin shared accommodation at the beautiful House of Light retreat centre.

Additional budget required for:

1. Travel and transfers for the 5 days abroad as part of the intensive learning retreat (Spain)
2. Purchase of a few key texts from the recommended reading list (many used copies of books are available online for just a few pence or can be obtained through good libraries)

We strongly advise that before/during or soon after completing the course trainees gain First Aid certification

What are the graduation requirements?

Qualification requires:

- Attendance of ALL modules
- Successfully passing the final assessment. This requires teaching a 60-minute Vinyasa Flow class to your peers. This is observed and assessed by the course Lead Trainers
- Maintaining a regular yoga practice
- Observing and recording notes for 3 classes with different teachers at TripSpace (included in TripYoga-Passport)
- Attending (and logging) 20 classes at a studio of preference (NB: classes at TripSpace are included in the TripYoga-Passport)

Will I get first hand teaching experience?

There are plenty of teaching opportunities throughout the course. The standards of the training are high but we wish the learning process to be enjoyable and empowering and to bring the very best out of each one of our trainees.

Beginning early in the course with 1-2-1 peer teaching of a single pose, we progress in manageable increments of practice-teaching time until the final assessment where you will teach a small group of peers in a 60-min Vinyasa Flow class.

The Lead Trainers, Amanda and Roberto, support and guide you throughout with plenty of opportunity for you to ask questions, experiment and receive feedback so that by the final assessment you are prepared, confident and teaching in the class scenario that will enable you to step straight into professional teaching after your graduation.

What if I can't make all the lessons?

You will be expected to attend 100% of the course in order to satisfy TripYoga's graduation requirements and to meet the Yoga Alliance standards.

In the unlikely event that you might miss a module, you will be asked to take it privately at a cost of: £100/hour. This can be shared between multiple students if applicable.

Where does the course take place?

The London-based part of the course takes place at TripSpace, in the heart of East London (Haggerston, Hackney) in a beautifully converted railway arch beside the enchanting Regent's Canal.
